

Shanghai-Hong Kong Stock Connect

The Shanghai-Hong Kong Stock Connect is a pilot programme which aims to establish mutual stock market access between Hong Kong and mainland China. While the programme brings new investment opportunities, it is important for investors to also understand the distinct differences of both stock markets, major risks, investor protection and rules as well as features and risks of Mainland stock market before they make any investments.

About the programme

Eligibility

Market operation and trading arrangement

Investor protection and rules

Major risks

About Mainland stock market

FAQs

Glossary

Useful links

Latest activities

Joint Announcement of China Securities Regulatory Commission and Securities and Futures Commission issued on 10 November 2014

Seminar review - Shanghai-Hong Kong Stock Connect Investor Education Seminars in September

Radio interviews: Hot topics of finance and investing II including Shanghai-Hong Kong Stock Connect

Free seminar: Shanghai-Hong Kong Stock Connect Investor Education Seminars from September to December 2014

Your View

What information do you want to learn more about Shanghai-Hong Kong Stock Connect?

(Please select all that applies.)

- Market operation and trading arrangement
- Risks
- Investor protection and rules
- Mainland stock markets
- Differences in Hong Kong and Mainland stock markets
- Others (Please specify)

